Mounting bracket installation: BMK-12, 13, 15 and 16 Nov. 26, 1999

When installing a BMK-12, 13, 15 or 16 filtration kits, it is important that both of the included mounting brackets be used. Together, the brackets provide the support required to retain the mount in even the worst of conditions. It has come to our attention that some people are using only the larger bracket and leaving out the smaller one. This unfortunately, will result in a critical situation. The larger bracket was not designed to carry the full weight of the mount. If used alone, the bracket will fatigue over time and eventually break. Only when both brackets are use together, will adequate support be afforded.

Should you be aware of installation in which both brackets were not used, we strongly suggest the second be added. As this is a matter of installation and not of material or workmanship, failures of this nature will not be provided warranty consideration.
